Principle Terms of Season Ticket Agreement

Season tickets are a commitment from the initial date of joining to the expiration of the contract term as chosen shown opposite and then the contract term anniversary thereafter.

Season ticket holders may only resign their ticket at the end of a contract term, which must be done in writing to Rookwood Golf Course giving two weeks notice.

Direct Debit payments may be cancelled during this term however, the commitment to the season ticket remains and the pro-rata subscription owing will be invoiced.

Rookwood Golf Course reviews season ticket subscription rates, inclusive of current VAT charges, annually on 1st April each year.

Rookwood Golf Course may at any time, without penalty, withdraw all or part of its facilities for any period or periods with or without notice in connection with any cleaning, repair, alteration or maintenance work.

In the event of the primary season ticket holder terminating their ticket, any partner is required to become a full-paying season ticket holder.

Should you fail to meet your ongoing commitment to pay subscriptions, access to Rookwood Golf Course will be refused and the remainder of the contract terms subscription become payable, in full, within 14 days.

I have received a copy of, and understand, the Direct Debit guarantee.

I agree to abide by the Club Rules of Rookwood and the Season Ticket Terms & Conditions:
